JOY REIGNS SUPREMACY AT THE GROUNDS

Special Trains will come in Tomorrow Morning Heavily Loaded from all Points—Weather Conditions superb.

Coshocton day at the county fair came to the tune of perfect weather and ideal conditions, and the spacious grounds were well crowded during the afternoon with Coshocton people, particularly children, this being the day youngsters are admitted free. Everything is going smoothly and the prospects were never brighter for fast racing, as the track is in superb shape. The fair board has left nothing undone to take care of the comfort of the visitors, and there will be plenty of them Thursday and Friday.

TOM NORMAN BREAKS ARM IN RUNAWAY

T. J. Norman, the contractor, broke his left arm just above the wrist and was badly bruised and shaken up and his wife was bruised and scratched when they were thrown from their buggy under the T. W. V. & O. trestle at about 4 o'clock Thursday evening. The horse frightened by an object falling from the trestle where workmen were working. Mr. Norman is much improved today and his wife is suffering no ill effects from the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman were driving towards Canal Lewisville at about 4 o'clock and on passing under the trestle which crosses the Lewisville road just above Balch's mills, a huge chunk of wood with which railroad men had been working on the trestle above, fell through striking the horse and blowing frightened the animal and it gave a lurch overturning the buggy and throwing the occupants to the ground, and the horse breaking loose from the buggy ran up the road toward Canal Lewisville.

Brooks Johnson and Chas. Hart were driving from Roscoe to Coshocton with a load of lumber and happened along just as the accident happened. They ran to the scene and picked up Mr. Norman, and after turning the buggy right side up, drove the man to Coshocton to the office of Dr. E. C. Carr where the man's injuries were dressed.

Today's Races up to 3 o'clock on Page 7 today.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Howe, and two children of Wheeling are the guests of Mrs. Howe's mother, Mrs. Henry Robinson, of Chestnut-st.

Dan Barcroft Bobs Up Again For the Fair

Smiling and happy Dan Barcroft of the Plainfield road arrived in town Tuesday to attend his 58th annual Coshocton county fair. He has attended every fair in the history of the county. He was only six years of age when he toddled to a fair held at Plainfield or Jacobsport as it was then called. Since then he has been a regular attendant. "This looks to me as though it was going to be the best one we have ever had," said Mr. Barcroft to The Age. He looks younger than he did five years ago and is good for at least fifteen more fairs.

30 LOSE LIVES IN BAD MINE DISASTER

[Associated Press Telegram] Victoria, B. C., Oct. 6.—As the result of an explosion of firedamp at the Extension mine of the Wellington Colliery company, 30 men lost their lives. Twenty-five of the 55 or 60 men entombed were rescued, but all were severely burned or otherwise injured.

The accident was terrific, but its effect was confined to the slope where it occurred. All of the men in the other slopes and levels escaped. Fifty men were engaged in rescue work. Hundreds of inhabitants and miners volunteered aid, but the nature of the rescue work precluded more than 50 being engaged.

The rescuers hoped the flames would die down so as to permit the rescue of the entombed, but their chances seemed hopeless. The explosion was due to firedamp, the timbers in two levels at once igniting and the fire spreading with great rapidity.

Residents of Nanaimo have been prevented from going to Extension, where the disaster occurred, and only rescuers, miners and officials, are on the scene.

ATTENDANCE AT THE FAIR LIGHT TODAY

SALARY FIXED OF APPRAISER OF REAL ESTATE

The county commissioners Wednesday morning passed a resolution to the effect that the incoming auditor shall receive 25 per cent of the proceeds taken in at the office for the purpose of hiring an assistant for the appraisal of real property but the amount is not to exceed $1000.

SILAS PRESTON DIES NEAR COOPERDALE

Well Respected And Prominent Citizen Passes Away After Long Struggle With Complication of Diseases.

At 5 o'clock Wednesday morning, Silas Preston, one of the best known citizens of Washington township, died at his home one mile south of Cooperdale, after suffering about 20 years with chronic hay asthma and other complications. For the past three weeks he has been in a critical condition and his death was known to be only a matter of time. His ailment was a peculiar one and baffled medical skill. A post mortem will probably be held Thursday to determine the exact cause of his death.

Silas Preston was born in West Carlisle, April 22, 1854. He was the son of Bernard Preston, who at the age of 87 survived him. March 23, 1877, he was united in marriage with Miss Anna Welch, who with one daughter, Miss Barbara Preston, teacher in the third grade at the Sycamore building in Coshocton, survives. He also leaves the following brothers and sisters, the family being one of the most prominent in Coshocton county: L. B. Preston, Chas. Preston, Mrs. G. W. Gault and Mrs. J. H. Axline, of the West Carlisle vicinity; C. W. Preston, the hardware merchant, Prof. A. D. Preston and Mrs. J. W. Almack of Coshocton.

From 1883 until 1895, Mr. Preston lived in Kansas and Colorado. A daughter died in Kansas at the age of 10 years. For a number of years he was engaged in shipping live stock. Later he was assistant live stock agent for the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe railroad. His territory covered practically all of the northwest.

Mr. Preston was a man of firm principles and honesty of purpose. He was a sterling citizen and possessed excellent business judgment. The funeral services will be conducted Friday morning at 10:30.

ROSCOE MAY HAVE NATURAL GAS

Roscoe citizens may have their homes lighted and heated by natural gas before many more months roll by. A plan is on foot to organize a private company to buy the gas from the pipe line company, which supplies the Coshocton Gas Co., and sell the gas to the private consumers.

The matter was discussed at the council meeting Tuesday evening. While nothing definite has been done, the preliminary steps are being taken. The council will probably pay for a number of street lights and it is thought that all of the residents along the main street would want the gas as well as a number on the hill.

Bloodhounds Located The Daily Age

Russel Conner, of 1401 Chestnut-st. was the lad that gave the bloodhounds at the fair grounds a run for their money Wednesday morning.

It was the test made with a copy of The Daily Age and was a big success, witnessed by scores of people.

The lad, who is a total stranger to Bloodhound Charley and his assistants took a copy of The Daily Age from the tent and was given a good long start. He dodged in and out among the tents of the midway, over the commons, vaulted the fence of the race track, over into the track center and up a tree.

Bloodhound Charley brought forth his hounds held in leash, that was a promise the boy exacted before he started because he said he "didn't want to be eaten up." The dogs took the scent at once and followed with noses to the ground the exact trail. It grew hotter and they bayed and went on the dead run and in a jiffy surrounded the tree. Young Conner came down with The Age and it was all the driver could do to hold them back.

SPECIAL TRAINS FOR TOMORROW

Excursion trains will be run from the following places on the Wheeling and Pennsylvania lines Thursday for the fair.

Walsh Must Serve Sentence. Chicago, Oct. 6.—John R. Walsh, convicted of misapplication of the funds of the Chicago National bank, must serve the sentence of five years imprisonment imposed upon him by the trial jury unless the supreme court upsets the affirmation of the verdict of guilty handed down by the United States circuit of appeals here.

Davis May Plead To Charge Last Of This Week

Will Davis will probably be arraigned on the indictment charging him with murder in the first degree, Friday or Saturday.

Sheriff McDonald served the formal indictment on the boy in his cell at the county jail Tuesday afternoon. The boy took it mechanically and read it all through without comment or quiver of an eyelash and handed it back. He is as cool as Ben Dickerson.

The law requires that a prisoner cannot be arraigned within 24 hours after being served with copy of the indictment. While no definite time has been set, it is stated around the court house that he will be formally arraigned the latter part of this week and time for trial then set. The coroner's inquest will probably be held Monday.

CORN CASE DECIDED BY SUPREME COURT

Closing Chapter in one of the Famous Lawsuits from Pike Township—Defendants win in all the Courts.

The famous "corn case" entitled Joseph Chaney vs. A. L. Young and others was decided in favor of the defendants Tuesday by the supreme court, which affirmed the judgment of the lower courts. Three other cases, involving similar questions, have been pending in the Coshocton county courts awaiting the decision of this case. The other cases are: Jos. Lake vs. Abraham Young et al., Daniel Cochran vs. Young and Howard Billman vs. Young, all the parties being prominent residents of Pike township.

Mrs. Catherine Chaney had a dower interest in a farm of 250 acres in Pike township. She leased all her interest to her son, Joseph Chaney who lives just over the line in Licking-co. Joseph arranged with three men, Billman, Lake and Cochran to put some of the land in corn on the shares. The ground was prepared and part of the corn was planted when the old lady, Mrs. Chaney died. The matter in controversy in the case just decided by the supreme court is the corn that was planted after Mrs. Chaney's death. Joseph claimed a landlord's share and the three tenants claimed portions. The land at the death of Mrs. Chaney became the property of A. L. Young and wife, who purchased it at partition sale, subject to Catherine Chaney's dower. The three courts have all held that Mr. and Mrs. Young are entitled to the landlord share because the corn was planted after the estate of Catherine Chaney had terminated by her death. All of the corn is valued at about $450.

James Glenn and J. M. Swartz, of Newark, represented the plaintiff, Joseph Chaney. Judge C. B. Hunt and Voorhees & Voorhees represented the defendants. A. L. Young and wife.

Pres. Nelson And Others In Coshocton

Several of the leading officers of the local sub-district of the Ohio United Mine Workers are here this week taking in the big fair and meeting old and new friends.

Pres. Nelson, Vice Pres. Thompson, and D. E. Oldham, Lee Hall and Leroy Ellsworth, members of the executive committee, arrived Tuesday and were piloted around seeing the sights by Secy-Treas., Edwin P. Miller, of Coshocton.

John Moore, of the Hocking district, candidate for state vice president to take the place of Dennis H. Sullivan, who is to be elevated to the presidency, and G. W. Savage, present state secretary, who seeks another term, are both expected Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning.

FINISHING OFFICE AT CLOW PLANT

Work is bustling along at the Clow plant. Not only is a big force employed getting the machinery placed in position, but Contractor Crowthers has a force at work completing the interior decoration of the handsome new office building. It will be ready for occupancy probably next week.

TROPICAL FRUIT AT THE FAIR

Wm. Clary has a most interesting exhibit at the fair grounds. The exhibit proper is of specimens of his hot house. There is a large lemon tree on which are four large lemons just about ready to pluck. On the other side of the booth is a banana tree. The exhibit looks like a southern millionaire's tropical garden.

JONES TAKEN TO THE WORKS

erry Jones, who was found guilty of dynamiting his by Squire Winner a few days ago was taken to the Columbus workhouse Monday morning to serve a 30-day sentence and to work out a fine of $100 and the cost, which amount to about $55. Ex-Chief Napel acted as deputy game warden and took Jones over.

TWENTY-SIX SPECIAL POLICE

Woe be to the unruly ones at the fair grounds this week and the man with the private bottle will have to be careful where they give their friends the drink, for there are now over 26 special policemen on the grounds. These men have all been sworn in by the mayor within the past two days and went on duty Wednesday morning.

WHEELING WILL NOT ABANDON ORANGE STREET

The Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad has given up the idea of abandoning the tracks along Orange-st. This fact is shown by the options they have taken on the Colopy and Adams & Gleason property on the corner of Orange and Sixth, just across from the present Wheeling freight depot.

Monday Mr. Needham, the superintendent of the real estate department of the Wheeling, was here and renewed the option which has been held on the Colopy property and which ran out today. The renewal is for 30 days. The Colopy land has a frontage of about 62 feet and is about 140 feet deep.

While the deal has not been closed yet it is practically so and will be made within a very few days. The price of the land is being kept secret but it is said to have reached an enormous size.

The options on the property means a substance that by spring a new freight house will be built on the land and the old one torn down.

TELLS OF THE MARCH TO THE SEA IN WAR

Do not fail to read opening installment of Capt. Lybarger's diary in today's paper. It is transcribed from the book he kept all during the war and tells of exciting days, and Sherman's long march to the sea.

DOG RUN OVER BY AUTOMOBILE

A water spaniel belonging to John Ricketts was run over by an automobile near the corner of Poplar and Seventh-sts. Tuesday afternoon by an automobile. The pup was a valuable one and its loss is felt very keenly by Mr. Ricketts.

General Thomas H. Hubbard, president of the Artie club, took strong sides with Robert E. Peary in the latter's contention that Dr. Cook never reached the North pole. General Hubbard went to Lacie Isle with the commander and went over the public statement that Peary drew up with the idea of disputing Cook's claims. The main points of Peary's contention are that Cook was insufficiently equipped, that the species he alleges he made over the ice was impossible and that the Eskimos deny that Cook went out of sight of land in the direction of the pole.

School Exhibits
At County Fair

Splendid Innovation This Year Brings Teachers And Parents Into Closer Touch With the Pupil's Work

Among the most interesting new features at the fair is the educational exhibit which appears in the Art Hall. This is the first year that the public schools have ever made entries at the fair in Coshocton county and it is proving to be a remarkable success. It gives the parents and public at large a chance to see the work of the students not only in the city of Coshocton but throughout the entire county; lets the public have direct touch with the school room which by most older people is regarded rather like a place where no one of their age is allowed, and makes them take interest in the workings of the greatest of American institutions the public school. The exhibit also gives the various teachers in the county an opportunity to compare the work of the various other schools with that of theirs and in this way is very helpful to them.

The exhibit is tastefully decorated and is situated on the left of the Arts Hall occupying one entire section. The work displayed takes in every grade from the primary to the senior high school pupils and some very elaborate and artistic work is shown. The exhibit dwells mainly with compositions which have been bound with beautiful hand painted covers all of which are remarkable pieces of art coming mostly from mere children. The high school exhibits are especially good. Specimens of the work done in the Chemistry, physics, physical geography, plane and solid geometry classes gives the observer an idea of the kind of work these most sevenths and eighth grades attracts the attention of the majority of the people. It seems almost impossible that children of the age of thirteen and fourteen years are able to construct chairs, tables, desks and all sorts of racks. There are two very handsome mission chairs up holstered in leather and ready for the living room or drawing room among the exhibits and both of them have been fashioned out of the plain wood by the childish hands. The workmanship is almost perfect and could hardly be excelled by a carpenter of life time training.

Another interesting piece of work is from the room of Miss Williams, instructor of the Sixth grade. The children of the grade have drawn a map of the United States and traced the various states. On each one of the states and as near the exact location as possible the products are pasted on.

The entries of the West Lafayette Warsaw, Fresno and other schools throughout the county are equally as artistic and interesting as those of the Coshocton schools. There are also exhibits that are wonderful. From the West Lafayette schools there is a drawing, made by W. R. Jennings, a student at the schools of the West Lafayette public school house. The drawing is done in pencil and shows much artistic talent. It is almost perfect in symmetry and form and the hand work is displayed throughout the entire drawing. It is unknown studies deal with the manual training class of the

"Pumpkin" And Arts
Halls Are Marvels
Of Rich Beauty

Even as early as Tuesday afternoon the fair grounds was the most popular spot in Coshocton, and people were driving and walking to the big exhibit in a steady stream. Every thing surely looks bright for a most successful fair.

Upon entering the grounds, and going into the horticultural hall, more familiarly known as "pumpkin hall," a most unusual and interesting specimen of the gardener's skill is shown in Park Kimberlin's exhibit. It is called a Celestial Pepper, and besides being a curiosity, is very pretty. The bright red and yellow peppers, hanging among the dark green leaves, are attracting a great deal of attention. There are squashes, cabbages of great magnitude, apples, and every farm product imaginable.

McCormick and Son of Fresno, have a large display. Peas, quinces, seven varieties of apples and forty different kinds of potatoes are in the exhibit. There are wheat, corn, pop corn, carrots, etc., as well. M. C. McCormick of the Keene Road has a beautiful display of fruit, peaches, apples, grapes, plums, pears, quinces, and scattered among them are the large peppers. Just below Mr. McCormick's booth are the Turtles from Licking co., with their canned fruits, jellies, etc., that won several prizes at the

Ohio News

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—August and Augusta Reschke were received at the penitentiary from Cuyahoga county to serve two and a half and three years respectively. Their story is a most unusual one. The brother and sister were born in Germany. The girl left there many years ago and went to Milwaukee, where she worked in a boarding house. Some years afterward August left home and went to Cleveland and obtained work on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad. He met his sister in Milwaukee, where she was going under a different name. They were married and have had three children. Their arrest was caused by a dispute with their uncle, who told the story of their relationship.

Marietta, O., Oct. 6.—While Mrs. Luther Young left her 7-month-old baby in a chair near the stove his clothing caught fire and the little fellow's feet were literally burned off. State Fair. The Canal Side Farm has an extensive exhibit of the very ap pealing "garden stuff".

The first booth to attract one's attention, upon entering the Arts Hall is the one containing the school exhibits. Pupils from schools all over the county have sent in their best work, and neat papers in paste board covers, red in ribbons, are shown with difficult algebra and geometry problems worked out, Latin translations, and all of the various branches of study in the schools represented in the skillful work of the students. The progressive manual training department of the Coshocton schools is well represented, in the good looking furniture on display. The work bench is placed in the booth, and the following pupils, from the Sixth Grade up to the second year of high school will be at work at the bench during three days of the fair: Wade Rinehart, Aubrey Wendt, Russell Barnes Herbert Blake, Chas. Brink, Clarence Smith on Wednesday; Thursday, John Glenn, Milo Bretzins, John Powellson Chas. Sells, Russell Keagy, and Lawrence Graham; on Friday, Merrell Soudles Ralph Holmes, Emmett Williams, Ralph Leffler, Thompson Holcomb and Wm. Clarey. The teachers in charge are: for Thursday, J. R. C. Maston, Miss Emerson, J. D. Hunt, Miss Severns; afternoon, C. W. Maston, Wm. Thresh, Mr. Ridgway and Mr. Wagner; Friday morning Prof. Gehres, Miss Almack, Miss Norris, Miss Mohler; afternoon, Mr. Nash, Mr. Barton, Miss Palm and Miss Leach.

The Hanlon Furniture Co., has an attractive display. A mahogany bed room suite, in dull finish is beautiful. A large brushed brass bed looks well in the room with the mahogany.

An unusually pretty bit of China painting has been entered by Karl Bolander, a 16 year old boy from Marion in a fern dish done in a conventional figure of his own designing. A bewildering array of embroideries and point lace, and fancy work of various kinds, is shown.

The latest fads and styles in men's and boys' suits, overcoats, and clothing, are shown to advantage in the exhibit from the Buckeye Clothing Co. The booth is attractively decorated, and is being given a great deal of deserved notice.

The Gray Hardware Co., have stoves and mantels in their exhibit. The Boston Piano Co., Angel Bros., and Jesse W. Loos, all have a beautiful display of pianos.

The Fountain Dry Goods Co. has fitted up three very attractive little rooms—the first in wall paper and picture, in which are three exquisite water colors done by R. A. Glaser. The second room has a display of the latest styles, in suits Wednesday, coats, and ready to wear garments. A special demonstration will be shown in suits Wednesday, Thursday and Friday; afternoon. The furniture display is shown in the last room. Every firm has done its best to make its special display the most attractive that it has ever been, and from the present indications, they have all succeeded.

CREW IS RELEASED

Mexicans, However, Hold American Boat on Poaching Charge.

My face and arms were covered with large red patches, so that I was ashamed to go out. I was advised to go to a doctor who was a specialist in skin diseases, but I received very little relief. I tried every known remedy, with the same results. I thought I would never get better until a friend of mine told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. S.S.S.
CURES RHEUMATISM

Every person who suffers with Rheumatism knows of some liniment, plaster, or other external application that may afford temporary relief from the pain of an acute attack of the disease. Such treatment, however, is in no sense curative—it simply gives ease for the time being, by counter-irritation at the spot affected, as the attack is sure to return at some future time. In this article we want to talk with you about S.S.S., a medicine that CURES Rheumatism, a remedy that removes the cause, and in this way assures the sufferer of permanent freedom from this painful and health-destroying disease.

Rheumatism is due to a diseased condition of the blood, brought about by an excess of uric acid in the circulation. This uric impurity gets into the blood usually because of constipation, poor kidney action, indigestion, and other minor stomach disturbances. These physical irregularities may be so slight, and at such prolonged intervals as to give us slight concern; but each one has a distinct influence on the eliminative members of the body, and prevents the proper removal of the impurities from the system. This refuse remains in the stomach and bowels, and souring, forms uric acid, which is quickly absorbed into the blood.

Then the circulation becomes weak and sour, the corpuscles, which ordinarily furnish nutriment to the body, are saturated with the uric acid, which they deposit into the muscles, nerves, bones and joints. This causes soreness and inflammation, and brings on the pains and aches of Rheumatism. No longer does the blood nourish every ligament of the body with healthful properties, but constantly the briny, inflammatory circulation distributes the uric impurity throughout the system, and Rheumatism becomes chronic. The occasional pains shooting through the muscles or shifting from joint to joint, become more frequent and severe, the muscles get sore, the flesh becomes feverish and inflamed; and constant, contact with the acid blood slowly dries up the natural fluids of the joints, stiffening the knees, ankles, fingers, etc.

There is but one way to cure Rheumatism, and that is to cleanse the blood of uric acid poison. S.S.S. goes into the circulation, and attacks the disease at its head, and by removing every particle of the cause, and thoroughly purifying the blood, cures Rheumatism permanently. S.S.S. changes the blood from a sour, acid-steeped stream to a rich, healthy fluid, which quiets the excited nerves, eases the throbbing, painful muscles and joints, cools the blood tissues, and reduces all inflammation of the flesh. When the blood has been purified and enriched by S.S.S., it gradually nourishes back to a healthful state the different members that have been starved and weakened because of impure, diseased blood. S.S.S. is purely vegetable and contains no harmful elements of any kind.

We have a special book on Rheumatism, which we will send, together with any special medical advice desired, free.

THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

CURED HIS RHEUMATISM.

While recovering from illness of fever, I had a severe attack of inflammatory rheumatism in the knees, from which I was unable to leave my room for several months. I was treated by two doctors and also tried different kinds of liniment and medicines which seemed to relieve me from pain for awhile, but at the same time I was not any nearer getting well. One day while reading a paper I saw an advertisement of S.S.S. for Rheumatism. I decided to give it a trial, which I did at once. After I had taken three bottles I felt a great deal better, and I still continued to take it regularly until I was entirely cured. I now feel better than I have for years.

THE PRINCESS VIRGINIA

BY C. H. AND A. M. WILLIAMSON

Authors of "The Lightning Conductor," "Rochester in Search of a Father," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1907, BY McCLURE, PHILLIPS & CO.

As the carriage started, from a way once a part of the nation's air which the channels of the air heard a girl sing behind a closed door at Allegheny.

The shops were all shut, would be shut until the day after tomorrow, but their windows were unshuttered and gaily decorated to add to the brightness of the scene. Strange old shops displayed the marvelous, chased silver, the jeweled weapons and gorgeous embroideries from the far eastern provinces of Russia. Spread new shops rivaled the best of the Rue de la Paix in Paris. Gray medieval buildings made wonderful backdrops for drapery of crimson and blue and garlands of blazing nooses. Modern buildings of purple and porphyry and the famous honey yellow marble of Russia fluted with flags, and above all, in the heart of the town, between old and new, rose the Castle Rock. Virginia's pulses beat as she saw the home of Leopold for the first time, and she was proud of its picturesqueness, its richness and grandeur, as if she had some right in it too.

Ancient narrow streets and wide new streets were alike arbors of evergreen and brilliant blossoms. Prospective citizens in their best, inhabitants of the poorer quarters and stalwart peasants from the country abowed and pushed each other good naturedly as they streamed toward the Leopoldplatz. Handsome people they were, the girl thought, her heart warming to them and to her it seemed that the very air tingled with expectation. She believed that she could feel the magnetic thrill in it even if she were blind and deaf and could hear or see nothing of the excitement.

"We must be in time! We shall be in time," she said to herself. "I shall lean out from my windows and see him."

But at the hotel, which they did finally reach, the girl had to fear a keen disappointment. With many apologies the landlord explained that he had done his very best for Lady Mowbray's party when he received their letter a fortnight before and that he had allotted them a good suite, with balconies overlooking the river at the back of the house—quite a Venetian effect, as her ladyship would find. But as to rooms at the front—impossible! All had been engaged fully six weeks in advance. One American millionaire was paying a thousand guineas solely for an hour's use of a small balcony, today for the unveiling and again tomorrow for the street procession. Virginia was pale with disappointment. "Then I'll go down into the crowd and take my chance of seeing something," she said to her mother when they had been shown into handsome rooms satisfactory in everything but situation. "I must hurry or there'll be no hope."

"My dear child, impossible for you to do such a thing!" exclaimed the grand duchess. "I can't think of allowing it. Fancy what a crush there will be—all sorts of creatures trampling on each other for places. Besides, you could see nothing."

"Oh, mother," pleaded the princess in her softest, sweetest voice, the voice she kept for extreme emergencies of cajoling. "I couldn't bear to stay shut up here while that music plays and the crowds shout themselves hoarse for my emperor. Besides, it's the most curious thing—I feel as if a voice kept calling to me that I must be there. Miss Portman and I'll take care of each other. You will let me go, won't you?"

Of course the grand duchess yielded, her one stipulation being that the two should keep close to the hotel, and the princess urged her reluctant companion away without waiting to hear her mother's last counsels.

Their rooms were on the first floor, and the girl turned eagerly down the broad flight of marble stairs. Miss Portman following dutifully upon her heels.

They could not get out by way of the front door, for people had paid for standing room there and would not yield an inch, even for an instant, while the two or three steps below and the broad pavement in front were as closely blocked.

Matters began to look hopeless, but Virginia would not be daunted. They tried the side entrance and found it free, the street into which it led being comparatively empty, but just beyond, where it ran into the great open square of the Leopoldplatz, there was a solid wall of sightseers.

"We might as well go back," said Miss Portman, who had none of the princess' keenness for the undertaking. She was tired after the journey and for herself would rather have had a cup of tea than see fifty emperors unveiled as many statues by celebrated sculptors.

"Oh, no!" cried Virginia. "We'll get to the front somehow sooner or later, even if we're taken off our feet. Look at that man just ahead of us. He doesn't mean to turn back. He's not a nice man, but he's terribly determined. Let's keep close to him and see what he means to do; then maybe we shall be able to do it as well."

Miss Portman glanced at the person indicated by a nod of the princess' head. Undismayed by the mass of human beings that blocked the Leopoldplatz a few yards ahead, he walked rapidly along without the least hesitation. He had the air of knowing exactly what he wanted to do and how to do it. Even Miss Portman, who had no imagination, saw this by his back. The set of the head on the shoulders was singularly determined, and the walk revealed a consciousness of importance accounted for perhaps by the gray and crimson uniform which might be that of some official order. On the sleek black head was a large cocked hat, adorned with an eagle's feather, fastened in place by a gaudy jewel, and this hat was pulled down very far over the face.

"Perhaps he knows that they'll let him through," said Miss Portman. "He seems to be a dignitary of some sort. We can't do better, if you're determined to go on, than keep near him."

"He has the air of being ready to die," whispered Virginia, for they were close to the man now.

"How can you tell? We haven't seen his face," replied the other in the same cautious tone.

"No. But look at the back of his neck and his ears."

Miss Portman looked and gave a little shiver. She would never have thought of observing it if her attention had not been called by the princess. But it was true. The back of the man's neck and his ears were of a ghastly yellow white.

"Horrid!" she ejaculated. "He's probably dying of some contagious disease. Do let's get away from him."

"No, no," said Virginia. "He's our only hope. There's going to let him pass through. Listen."

Miss Portman listened, but as she understood only such words of Rhaetian as she had picked up in the last few weeks she could merely surmise that he was ordering the crowd out of his way because he had a special message from the lord chancellor to the burgomaster.

The human wall opened. The man darted through, and Miss Portman was dragged after him by the princess. So close to him had they kept that they might easily be supposed to be under his escort, and in any case, they passed before there was time to dispute their right of way.

"It must be the secretary of Herr Koffman, the new burgomaster," Virginia heard one man say to another. "and these ladies are with him."

On and on through the crowd passed the man in gray and crimson, oblivious to the two women who were using him. There was something about that disagreeable back of his which proclaimed him a man of but one idea at a time. Close to the front line of spectators, however, there came a check. People were vexed at the audacity of the girl and the elderly woman and would have pushed them back but at the critical second the blue and silver uniformed band of Rhaetia's crack regiment, the Imperial Life guards, struck up an air which told that the emperor was coming. Promptly the small group composed forgot its grievance in excitement, crowding together so that Virginia was pressed to the front, and only Miss Portman was pushed ruthlessly into the background. The poor lady raised a feeble protest in English which nobody heeded unless it were the man who had inadvertently acted as pioneer. At her shrill outburst he turned quickly, as if startled by the sudden cry, and Virginia was so close to him that her chin almost touched his shoulder. For the first time she had a glimpse of his face, which matched the yellow wax of his neck in pallor.

"We can't do better."

"The girl shrank away from him involuntarily. 'What a death's head,' she thought—a sly, wicked face and awful eyes! He looked frightened, I wonder why!"

Assured that the sharp cry did not concern him, the man turned to the front again, and having obtained his object—a place in the foremost rank of the crowd, with one incidentally for the princess—he proceeded to take from his breast a roll of parchment tied with narrow ribbon and sealed with a large red seal. As he drew it out and rearranged his coat his hand trembled. It, too, was yellow white. The fellow seemed to have no blood in him.

Virginia, standing now shoulder to shoulder with the man in gray and crimson, had just time to feel a stirring of dislike and perhaps curiosity when a great cheer arose from thousands of throats. The square rang with a roar of loyal acclamation. Men waved tall hats, soft hats and green peasant hats with feathers. Beautifully dressed women grouped on the high decorated balconies waved handkerchiefs or scattered roses from gilded baskets. Women in gorgeous costumes from faroff provinces held up half frightened, half laughing children, and then a white figure on a white charger came riding into the square under the triumphal arch wreathed with flags and flowers.

Other figures followed—men in uniforms of green and gold and red on coal black horses—yet Virginia saw only the white figure, shining, wonderful.

Under the glittering helmet of steel, with its gold eagle, the dark face was clear cut as a cameo, and the eyes were bright with a proud light. To the crowd he was the emperor, a fine, popular, brilliant young man, who ruled his country better than it had been ruled yet by one of his house and, above all, provided many a pleasing spectacle for the people, but to Virginia he was far more an ideal Sir Galahad or a St. George strong and brave to slay all dragons which might threaten his white land.

DRIVING THE CHILD.

Is there really any reason why a child in the public schools should be driven to study so hard that the young life becomes a burden? Every parent glories in the success of the child, but is there not a tendency to push too hard? After all, life is but a span and the child had better be taught how to live that life well and to get the most good and usefulness out of it, rather than to see how much can be done in a given space of time. In this line the Boston Traveler says editorially:

With all respect for the wonderful educational work in which Germany is setting the pace for the rest of the world, there is one feature which can not be recommended for adoption elsewhere. The German educational method makes good to those who survive it, but it drives the child too hard. It looks only to the future; it does not study carefully the child's physical limitations and requirements, and demands all work should be un-mixed with the play which is needful during the school period. In the United States we go too far in exactly the opposite direction.

On an average, one schoolboy in Germany commits suicide every week because of overstudy, and this has been going on for more than twenty years. The blame is to be divided among the parents and the authorities, and it should rest equally on both.

The German parent, quoted as saying to his boy on the eve of examination that "if you do not bring me back a certificate of promotion I will never speak to you again," is not the exception. This particular boy got his certificate more dead than alive from work, worry and fear, but if he did not he would probably have added one more to the score of child self-murders.

Even the wonderful forward commercial march of Germany in the past twenty years cannot be justified when child-suicide is necessary to accomplish this; and what is more, we believe that it is wholly unnecessary; that an equally good result can be accomplished by different means, which will combine study and play in proper proportion.

Over in an eastern college the other day, upper classmen initiated a freshman by making him roll a pea- nut along the sidewalk with his nose. Ah, there's a future politician.

The reason most of us object to that new ruling that one cannot write a check for less than a dollar is that it is too near the average man's size.

New York is spending millions this week and last celebrating the discovery of the Hudson river and the anniversary of the first steam boat. And so far they haven't had any quarrels as to who discovered it first.

From all over the country comes news of miners' organizations endorsing William Green, for John Mitchell's old job. The man from Coshocton, no matter in what line his business may be, has a way of getting there.

SCALPERS CORNER TICKETS

Shortage of Reserved Seats at Pittsburgh Games Investigated.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6.—It was reported to the Pittsburgh baseball club officials that ticket speculators were, in a measure, responsible for the dearth of seats for the games on Friday and Saturday on Forbes field.

It is reported that sections of the grandstand have been bought in bulk by several ticket syndicates and the tickets placed on sale at prominent cafes and downtown cigar stores. The report is being investigated.

All Reserved Seats Sold.
Detroit, Oct. 6.—With every reserved seat for the world's series baseball games here next Monday and Tuesday already sold, the office of the Detroit American league baseball club was besieged by disappointed would-be purchasers. Hundreds of applications by telephone and telegraph were also refused. The demand for seats was so heavy that Secretary R. B. McRoy of the national baseball commission gave the local club permission to place on sale Friday morning 5,000 pavilion seats at $1.50.

Rheumatism is a dangerous disease because of its shifting nature it often strikes the heart and proves fatal. Any one with even a taint of it ought to drive it out as soon as possible.

It is caused by sluggish, worn-out or overworked kidneys, which become clogged and fail to eliminate the impurities from the system.

"The Lost Trail"

Capacity House greeted the second bill of the Chicago Stock Co. at the Sixth-st., theatre Tuesday night and the company gained for themselves a greater corner in the hearts of their audience even than the night before. The piece is called "The Lost Trail" a most beautiful western story.

Everyone of the characters were filled with competent actors and actresses and the piece ran along smoothly without a hitch. Mabel Spencer as the general's daughter and Clara Belle Prae as the little mail carrier were exceptionally good. They spoke their lines with an interpretation that made the audience forget the stage and lead them to the great wild plains of the west.

The piece is laid in the broad and boundless west, and tells a story of pioneer days that is most thrilling and absorbing. There are real pictures of life among the cowboys; there are also scenes of life in the newly built home in the wilderness, where love and devotion reign and where everyone is on the alert to greet a friend or meet an enemy, and where the conventionalities of the social circle are more observed in the breach than in the observance.

"A Soldier of Napoleon"
It is not often a play with the reputation of "A Soldier of Napoleon" which the Chicago Stock Co., offers this evening. Tonights play is one which was originally written for Maxine Elliott.

"THE DEVIL"
will be here Thursday at Six thirty p. m.

The Chicago Stock will give two shows Thursday night, but the regular bill will commence as usual at 8:30 while the special added performance will be a production of the great International success, The Devil which will commence at 6:30 which will make a good place for out of town people to sit and rest and enjoy themselves with one of the best plays given the stage last year and at the same time make it early and pleasant for the vast multitude of our country patrons who have long drives to make after the show. The Chicago Stock Co., have the Belasco version of the Devil which has never been seen here and was pronounced as the great show by the New York papers.

Advance sales for both of Thursday's show will open at the Drug store at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The play for the regular performance beginning at eight thirty will be The Told Gate Inn a story of Colonial days Ethan Allen and the Green Mountain Boys.

BUILD ROAD ON

OLD SURVEYS

Gang of Surveyors for Branch of W. & L. E. Working at Otsego Tuesday.

The new Coshocton, Otsego & Eastern road, the Wheeling & Lake Erie branch which will connect with the B. & O. three-quarters of a mile east of New Concord, will build on the Moore rights of way secured in this vicinity seven years ago, according to statements of railroad officials made in Otsego yesterday.

A gang of surveyors stopped off in Otsego yesterday and did some surveying. They quit work until next Monday morning because of the Coshocton county fair, but will resume at once, finishing the survey in three or four weeks.

It is stated that the road has two-thirds of the old Moore rights of way, and this will facilitate matters to a great extent. Many of the farmers in this neighborhood at that time sold parcels and gave deeds, so there is no question about the ownership, as the new road has bought rights of way.

Work on the Oklahoma school building is being pushed and the structure will be ready for occupancy at the appointed time.

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

(From The Age of October 6, 1899)
Work was this morning commenced on the court house side walk and no time will be lost until the last flag stone is placed in position. Savory and Miller, the contractors, are at work removing the trees that have for years stood near the curb line and in a few days will have the work of laying the stone well underway.

Homer Kinney last Saturday purchased this brick that has so long been used for a sidewalk, for $6, and a force was put at work this morning removing them.

Late Saturday afternoon it was reported to Health Officer Foster that the last of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Richeson, a mere babe, had contracted diphtheria. Dr. Carr that evening used anti-toxin and the child is much better today.

Work on the Oklahoma school building is being pushed and the structure will be ready for occupancy at the appointed time.

LABEL CHARGE FAILS

American Missionary Wins in Congo Rubber Controversy.

Lecroplville, Belgian Congo, Oct. 6.—The Rev. W. H. Sheppard, an American missionary, was acquitted of the charges of libel brought against him by one of the Congo concession companies which has a monopoly of rubber gathering in the Kasain region.

In substance, the charges made by the missionaries were that Congo officials levy upon the natives oppressive taxes to be paid in rubber; that whole villages, including women and children, are impressed by the soldiers for gathering the rubber; that they often are compelled to travel many miles to the rubber forests and to sleep there for more than a week under unhealthy conditions; that they are cruelly punished for failure to meet the taxes imposed, and that so large a proportion of their time is taken for gathering these taxes that they are unable to cultivate crops and raise food necessary for their support.

HAD THRILLING

ESCAPE FROM TWO LIONS

Don Beaucare, an animal trainer at the wild animal show at the fair grounds, had a hair breadth escape from being torn apart Wednesday morning while going through his act at a preliminary performance given early in the day. He enters the cage where there is a massive lion and lioness, both of which are of ugly temper, particularly just at this season. Trainers are always alert but occasionally feel a little too secure. The man turned to see that the door of the cage was securely fastened. An assistant yelled and the trainer side stepped with the agility, just in the very nick of time, for her open-clawed claws caught the clothing on his shoulder and ripped the goods as though it were tissue paper. He whipped the creature back into a corner and then made a hasty exit.

GOOD WELL IN KNOX COUNTY

Much excitement in oil circles has been created by the striking of a good oil well by the Mexican Oil and Gas Co., near the village of Howard east of Mt. Vernon, Knox county.

This is gas territory and several of the Columbus companies, including the Columbus Gas and Fuel Co. have been avenge under lease in Howard and surrounding townships.

The Mexican Co. was drilling for gas but its well proved to be good for oil. It was shot Saturday night and yesterday the report was that when the pumps were started there was 100 feet of oil in the well and in pumping two tanks this was practically not lowered at all. Several companies are rushing strings of tools to the land and wells will be put down at once.—Columbus Journal

A linoleum may be freshened perceptibly if given a coat of linseed oil and paraffin. Boil the oil and wax together and apply, while still hot, with a brush. Use only enough to cover the surface, and when finished wipe it off dry with a cloth.

Cake tins, patty pans, etc., are easily cleaned by boiling. Put them in a pot with some soap extract and water and boil them for about an hour, when they will be found clean and new-looking. Soap and soda or borax may be used instead of soap extract if preferred.

Table linen, which has been stained with egg should have the stain removed before sending to the laundry, as placing it in boiling water sets the stain and makes it almost permanent. The best thing to do is to soak the cloth in cold water which makes it easy to remove.

If the bathroom window is not made of stained or frosted glass you can cloud it in this manner: Get some soft putty and place a ball of this in each corner and put it evenly all over the glass. It leaves an opaque surface which clouds but does not darken the glass. It should then be treated with white varnish as soon as the putty dries.

ONLY TWO BALLOONS LAND

Other Contestants in St. Louis Race Keep On the Move.

St. Louis, Oct. 6.—Absence of reports as to the whereabouts of the balloons which started in the race of 75,000 cubic footers here tends to the belief that, with the exception of the University City and the Pommeroy, all are still in the air.

The University City, John Berry, pilot, landed near Chillicothe, Mo. This is 155 miles from St. Louis on an air line. The Pommeroy, W. H. Arnold pilot, landed at Knobels, Ark. 160 miles from here.

The balloons are expected to remain in the air 40 hours, and as the day was hot the aeronauts would not have to use much ballast.

Sick Headache And Indigestion

The Former is very Frequently Caused By The Other

The pneumo-gastric nerve connects the stomach region directly with the brain, and when the stomach is out of order the head is almost certain to be affected through reflex or sympathetic nervous irritation.

The headache of dyspepsia and indigestion is of every variety from the coldest and least defined to the most acute pain. Sometimes the whole mass of the brain seems racked with anguish. At other times the ache is confined to the back or front part of the head. The first form is usually of a continued character and is often an ominous indication of a serious and a mild variety of so-called "brain ache." The second form is usually of a transient character, and is often a warning of a more serious condition of the brain, and is often a warning of a more serious condition of the brain, and is often a warning of a more serious condition of the brain.

Persons subject to indigestion and other forms of stomach trouble, are very frequently afflicted with headache, and in numerous cases a sick headache is the only noticeable symptom of indigestion. In other cases, there are stomach manifestations as well.

The majority of people regard the headache as a separate disease instead of a symptom of stomach trouble, which it usually is, and they attempt to treat it separately and make the mistake of endeavoring to obtain relief through the use of headache powders, tablets, pills and seltzers, the use of which is extremely dangerous, as many of them contain such powerful depressant drugs as acetanilid, phenacetin, antipyrine, caffeine, etc., which depress the heart, brain and nerve centers, and lower arterial pressure; and many a person with a weak heart has become dangerously ill shortly after taking one of those headache remedies. They also interfere with the digestive processes, and actually make the dyspepsia worse than before.

In order to get rid of the headache of indigestion—and most headaches are caused by stomach trouble—one should endeavor to reach and remove the cause, and the headache effect will soon be relieved.

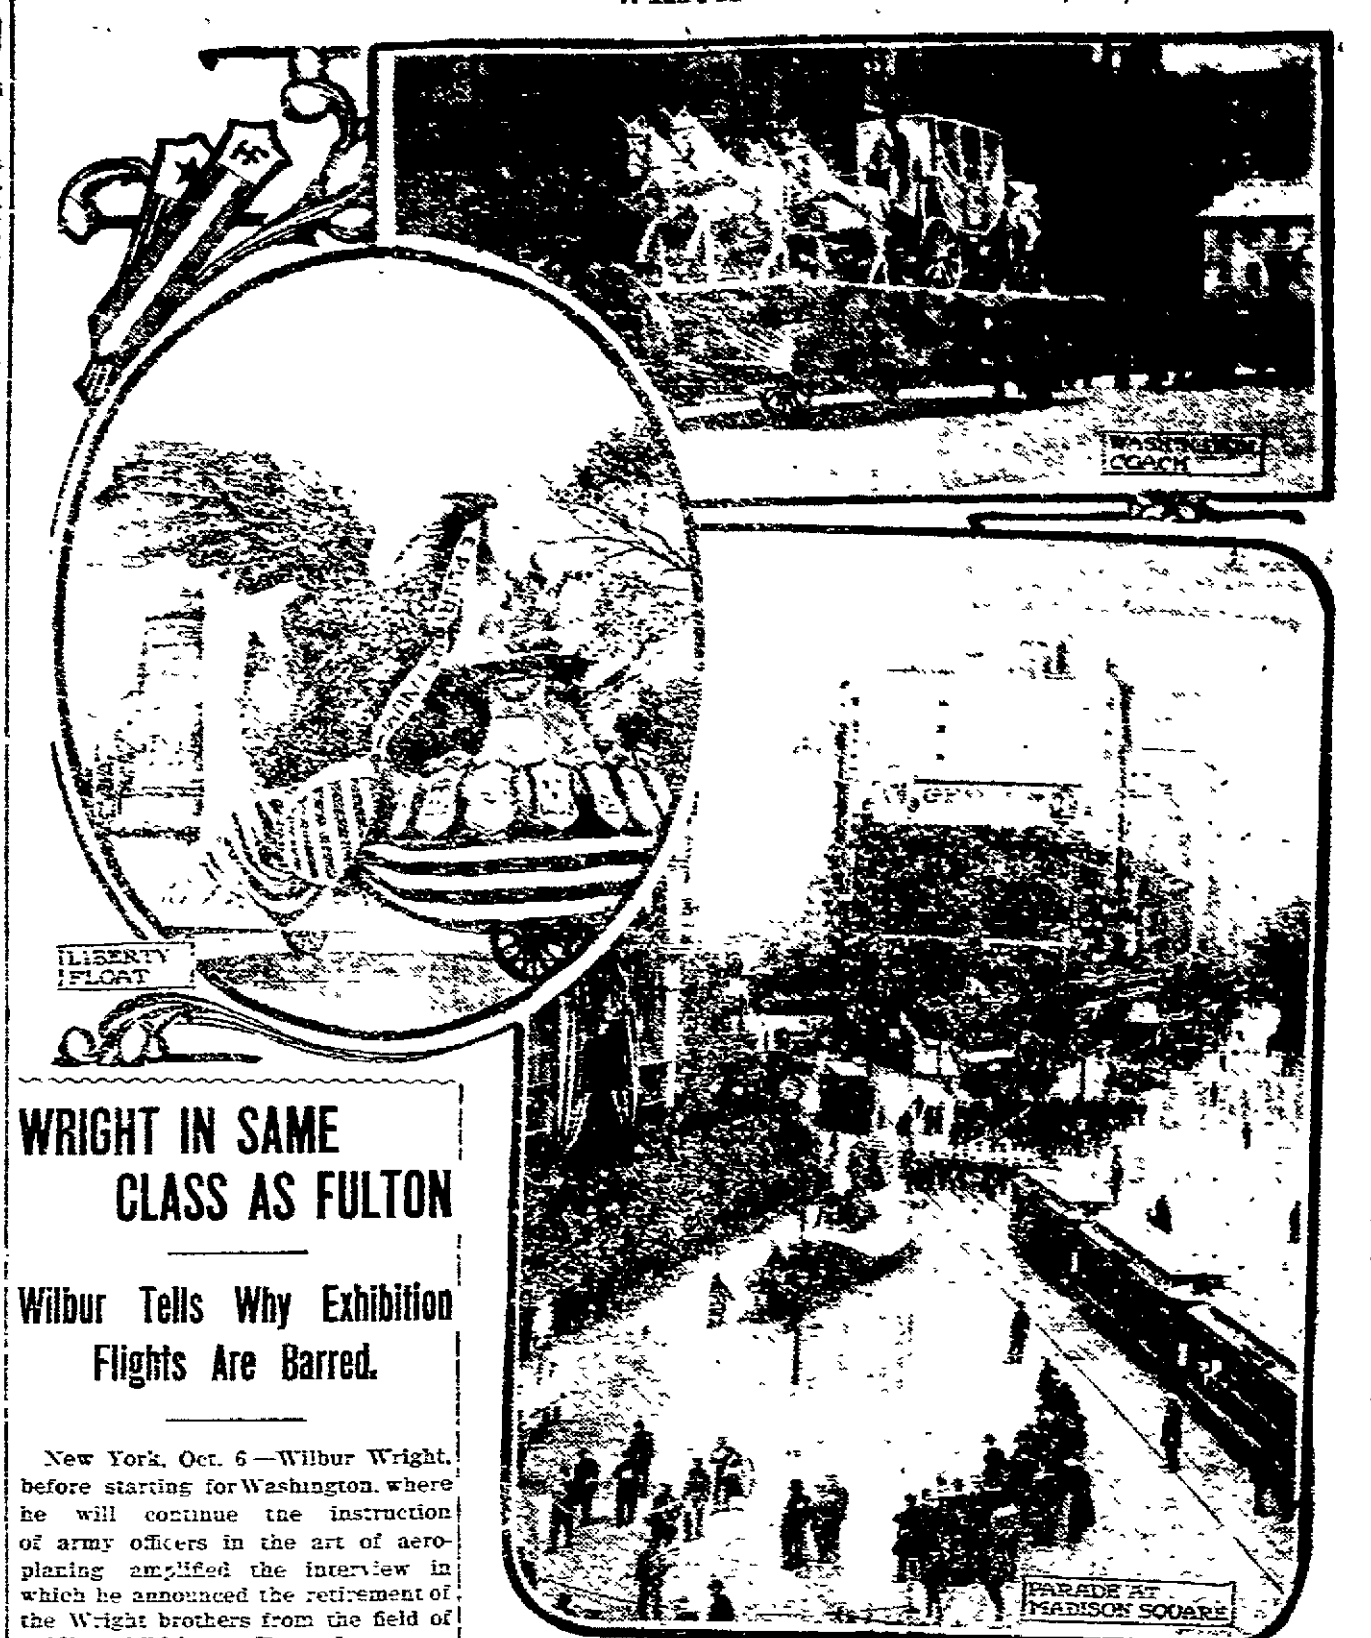

STUART'S DYSPEPSIA TABLETS do not cure the symptoms; they cure the cause of the headache, which permanently removes the symptoms. They digest every atom of food in the stomach cure all forms of stomach trouble, and the headache, and every other disagreeable symptom and untoward effect is quickly gotten rid of. Don't make the mistake of trying to cure your dyspeptic or nervous headache through the use of headache powders, tablets, etc. Use common sense, good judgment, and one of two of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and you will be agreeably surprised at the rapidity with which the headache will be relieved and cured simultaneously with the relief and cure of the stomach disturbance.

WRIGHT IN SAME CLASS AS FULTON

Wilbur Tells Why Exhibition Flights Are Barred.

New York, Oct. 6.—Wilbur Wright, before starting for Washington, where he will continue the instruction of army officers in the art of aeroplaning, amplified the interview in which he announced the retirement of the Wright brothers from the field of public exhibitions. He said:

"We are making a serious study of the aeroplane. Every time we go into the air we make a study of some part of the mechanism, or some peculiar weather condition, with a view to improving our machine. We could not do that as hired attractions. I regarded this New York flight as a different proposition. My brother and myself regard our experiments as being in the same class with Fulton's experiments. We are working with an art that is still in its infancy. So I wanted to take part in this celebration and thus pay my respects to the man who had the nerve to build the first steamboat."

"The accident here taught me a lesson—that until motors are perfected, we shall have no perfect aeroplane. The science of flying now depends upon the motor. My aeroplane seems all right, but my motors are not. I hope the day will come soon when we shall enter a perfect motor."

PERSONAL REMINISCENCES OF THE CIVIL WAR

By Capt. E. L. Lybarger.

In looking through Mr. War diary, which I kept during the war of the rebellion, for the purpose of ascertaining the exact place in Georgia, where I had fought for Lincoln in 1864, I was constrained to read over that portion dealing with Sherman's March to the Sea, to the end of the war, and was persuaded thereby that its publication might not prove uninteresting to some of your readers. I thought that the old soldiers who were with Sherman at least, might enjoy some reminiscences of that memorable and unique campaign.

It may be well to state for the better understanding of those who may read this, that Sherman's forces were divided into two armies, the Army of the Tennessee Commanded by Gen. O. O. Howard and the Army of Georgia, Commanded by Gen. H. W. Sherman. I commanded Co. A, 13th, O. V. I., and belonged to the 1st Division, 2nd Brigade, 17th Army Corps of the Tennessee.

The Corps was commanded by Gen. Frank P. Blair, the Division by Gen. Joseph A. Mower; the Brigade by Gen. Jon W. Sprague, and the Regiment by Col. Walter Swaine.

The 17th Army Corps marched on parallel roads, the greater portion of the time and frequently at quite a distance apart, which will account for their different experiences, and I hope that the readers who were on the march will find this fact in mind, should the memories or diaries differ from each other.

I am sure that your readers, however, that follow, is a verbatim copy of the diary, as it was kept by me and I hope will coincide with the recollections of my comrades of the 17th Army Corps.

It will be remembered that about the 15th of October 1864, Hood made his last stand at the battle of Franklin, which resulted in the routing of the Army of the Tennessee to the relief of the garrison at Chattanooga. The 17th Corps was one of the troops sent after Hood's army, and it was not until about the 15th of November that it returned to the front.

On November 5th, I noted in the diary that we are expected to be off on our march to the Gulf. Here it begins.

Thursday Nov. 10th, 1864. The march for the North leaves tonight.

Friday 11th. The last train from the North, and the last one for the North passed over the bridge today. Sherman going to leave his base at Atlanta, and look for one from the South.

Saturday 12th. The 17th Army Corps engaged in fighting on the Railroad track and burning the Railroad.

The Immensity of Space.

A photographic plate exposed to the heavens in a large telescope for any considerable length of time shows nothing but a continuous blur of light, indicating that the photographic eye sees beyond the reach of human vision such a multitude of stars that every part of space is filled. One may gain some inkling of the immensity of space by supposing the photographic plate exposed upon the remotest star it now records and looking out still farther to find the heavens still crowded with millions and millions of suns each possibly having its own planets.

Taft Meets Outgoing Transport in San Francisco Bay.

WISHES HE COULD GO ALONG

Three California Cities Entertain the Presidential Party—Program Consists of Usual Routine of Sight-Seeing Tours, Banquets and Reviews of School Children—Discusses Ideals of Government at University of California.

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—President Taft, after making short sojourns in Oakland and Berkeley, across the bay, came to San Francisco and was welcomed by a throng which lined the walks in some places ten deep along a line of march extending over nearly three miles of the principal streets. School children of this city, Oakland and Berkeley cheered the president.

Visiting three cities and passing three-quarters of an hour on San Francisco bay, the president had a busy day. As he was crossing from Oakland to San Francisco the army transport Thomas was setting sail for the Philippines, and by the president's request the revenue cutter McCulloch, on which he was passenger, was drawn up alongside the big vessel, the sides of which were lined with the soldiers and families and officers.

On the bridge of the transport the Philippine constabulary band was drawn up and was playing "Hail to the Chief" as the president shouted across the water to the kaki-clad soldiers: "Goodby, boys; I wish you a pleasant voyage."

Answering cheers came back to the president, and as the transport started on her voyage again the president looked wistfully toward the Golden Gate. "Does it make you feel homesick, Mr. President?" asked a member of the president's party. "Indeed it does," replied Mr. Taft. "I would give anything if I were going with them."

Berkeley First in Line.
Berkeley had the honor of being the first city overlooking the bay to welcome the president. He was driven in an automobile to the Greek theater of the University of California, where he was greeted by Professor Bernard Moses, who had served with Mr. Taft in the Philippines. The president made a brief address in which he declared that ideals in popular government were a splendid thing to cultivate, but that the man at the helm must be content with a compromise. Must accept his responsibilities and "play the game" whether he succeeded in bringing the people to follow him or had to follow the people.

Crossing the bay on the revenue cutter McCulloch and eating luncheon during the trip, the president upon his arrival in San Francisco was taken for a three-mile carriage ride through some of the city. He reviewed on Van Ness avenue nearly all of the public and parochial school children of the city.

Next the president laid the cornerstone of the new Young Men's Christian association building, and expressed again the interest he always feels in Y. M. C. A. work. Mr. Taft has what he delights to refer to as his "Y. M. C. A. speech." He has laid cornerstones for this class of buildings in Shanghai, Hongkong, all through the United States and in many other parts of the world.

Later the president was the guest of honor at a reception at the Union League club, and he was also given a banquet at the Fairmont hotel by more than 600 residents of San Francisco, and later was entertained at the Press club. He left this morning for a three-days' trip through the Yosemite valley.

The Dramatic in Life.

The undying interest which is taken in the theater is explained by the very profound life with which Shakespeare began a very silly speech. "All the world's a stage." People, as a rule, take no interest in anything that is not dramatically or, as in the case of politics, melodramatically formulated. Any creed to be popular must be dramatically stated. Therefore the gospel is preferred to the epistles. Aeschylus' fables are remembered because they are the truth about things stated dramatically and morally.—George Bernard Shaw.

NO POLITICS IN PROPOSED BANK

Officers to Be Appointed For Life Terms by President.

PEOPLE WILL OWN THE STOCK

Project Contemplates Acceptance of Good Commercial Paper as Basis For Issue of Money—Expected to Meet With Prolonged Opposition When Congress Tackles Report of Monetary Commission and Begins Remodeling Financial System.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Congress, at its coming session, will stand face to face with a situation born in the panic days of 1907, when the issue of clearing house certificates was made by the government to supply currency to meet the demands of the business interests in the country, though America's coffers were overflowing with gold. The temporary legislation enacted during that critical period must be either supplanted or re-enacted into permanent law, and foremost among the various projects that have been advanced as a proper solution of the government problem stands the proposed national central bank. As it is the common belief that it will form the basis of the curative legislation to be recommended by the monetary commission, President Taft in his recent Boston speech signified his own favorable disposition toward the project.

"A bank of the people and for the people," is the definition of this institution made by George M. Reynolds, president of the American Bankers' association, in his Chicago speech. He pointed out that the people were to be the stockholders, for any one would be privileged to buy the bank stock just as he might a government bond.

Political control of the great bank would be made at least extremely difficult by the life appointment of the officers. Integrity of operation would be assured by a board of supervisors, appointed by the president, the secretary of the treasury and the comptroller of the currency, subject to the approval of the senate, for alternate terms of at least eight years, to bridge over political mutations. Thus would be met the objections founded upon the history of the old United States bank, that the central bank might be prostituted to political uses and be made a powerful engine for the perpetuation in power of one party.

Object of the Bank.
The single purpose of this projected bank would be to safeguard the business interests of the people in their private relations. If there were need for more money for business purposes, the bank would supply it by notes, and if there were a plethora in dull times these notes would be withdrawn. Governmental assistance to the institution would be limited to the deposit with the central bank of all government funds now in the national bank. The existing banks, it is hoped, would find their compensation for the loss of these funds in being relieved from their present burden of carrying the whole weight of responsibility for increases in the circulating medium, and in the fact that the central institution would not receive deposits from individuals.

As to how the business man is to benefit by a central bank, the statement is made that the project includes a provision for the acceptance of good commercial paper as a basis for the issue of money. Such paper would represent actual transactions between solvent concerns—all short-time credits—and sure to be redeemed whenever the transaction was concluded. There would be a reasonable coin reserve to maintain equilibrium.

That this plan will meet with prolonged opposition when laid before congress can not be doubted, although the administration desires to have the matter regarded as non-political.

The C. H. S. foot ball team will have a strong line up for Thursday's game with Millersburg. Cohen will play right half filling the place left vacant by Graham, who is unable to play. The lineup: Judd, c; Knight; Brail, rg; Shippy, lt; Johnson, rt; Barnes, lg; Sawwell, re; Gaul, fb; Cohen, lb; Wilcoxon, rh.

ELLERY'S BAND WANTS TO COME HERE NOV. 6

Channing Ellery and his band want to give a concert in Coshocton the afternoon and night of Saturday Nov. 6. At present the band is closing an all summer engagement at the Seattle expo and then go to Vancouver and on to Chicago; then come east. They have concerts arranged at Wooster, Akron and Canton and want to include Coshocton. Mr. Ellery expects to take a vacation of a couple of months this winter and lay the band off while he spends the time east with his family. He says the band is doing magnificent work and has met with continuous ovation. It is hardly likely that the band will be brought here as the German American Alliance has plans under way for the bringing of the Natiello band here this fall.

NO DYSPEPSIA STOMACH GAS OR HEARTBURN

Every year regularly more than a million stomach sufferers in the United States, England and Canada take Pape's Diapiesin and realize not only immediate but lasting relief.

This harmless preparation will digest anything you eat and overcome a sour gassy or out-of-order stomach five minutes afterwards.

If your meals don't fit comfortably or what you eat has like a lump of lead in your stomach or if you have heartburn, that is a sign of indigestion.

Get from your Pharmacist a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapiesin and take a dose just as soon as you can. There will be no sour risings, no belching of undigested food mixed with acid, no stomach gas or heartburn, fullness or heavy feeling in the stomach, Nausea, Debility, Headaches, Dizziness or intestinal griping. This will all go, and besides, there will be no sour food left over in the stomach to poison your breath with nauseous odors.

Pape's Diapiesin is a certain cure for out-of-order stomachs, because it takes hold of your food and digests it, just the same as if your stomach wasn't there.

IF PITTSBURG WINS

THE PENNANT
If Pittsburg wins the pennant (and it looks now like a "cinch" for New York or Chicago's chance I wouldn't give a pinch; and when at last it's settled won't they paint old Pittsburg red, and every "fan" will yell until he's ready to drop dead. To Forbes Field the crowd will go when last the Pirates play and maybe "won't" make Rome howl and decorate that day, in fact they'll paint the bleachers with a coat of Spartan Lead, and with Aurora Paint the grandstand it is said. Spartan white lead and Aurora Paints are purest and best and wear the longest. Manufactured by The Marietta Paint & Color Co., Marietta, O. Sold by Fleming & Gray, Coshocton, Ohio.

CAPTAIN BERNIER HAS HIS DOUBTS

Wants More Proof That Cook or Peary Reached Pole.

Quebec, Oct. 6.—It became known here that Captain Bernier of the government steamer Arctic, which has returned from a voyage to the polar regions, has a letter which he received from Dr. Cook dated Umanak May 22, in which Cook says that Peary sold his supplies, but that with the aid of the provisions brought by Bernier he was able to "work out his problem." The letter says: "We have passed into the barest center and have picked the polar prize, but the effort was dangerous beyond all conception."

Captain Bernier was asked if he thought either Cook or Peary had reached the pole. The captain answered: "I would not admit that either had been to the pole before I have had sufficient proof. Both are very persistent." The captain did not want to say any more because as he said he wanted to be a witness in the Cook-Peary controversy.

Pittsburg Honors Cook.
Pittsburg, Oct. 6.—Facing an audience which packed Duquesne Gardens from pit to dome, Dr. Frederick A. Cook the Brooklyn physician and explorer, talked from notes concerning his trip to the north pole and commented on his reception in Pittsburg, which he declared rivaled in warmth any previous event of the kind he had experienced outside of New York city.

BIG SIGN PAINTED ON LEE MILL

A WARNING

Since its introduction into the United States, the sale of Parisian Sage have been phenomenal. This success has led to many imitations similar in name. Look out for them, they are not the genuine. See that the girl with the Auburn hair is on every package. You can always get the genuine at C. E. Anderson's. Parisian Sage is the quickest acting and most efficient hair tonic in the world.

It is made to conform to Dr. Santerbon's (of Paris) proven theory that dandruff, falling hair, baldness and scalp itch are caused by germs. Parisian Sage kills these dandruff germs and removes all traces of dandruff in two weeks; it stops falling hair and itching scalp and prevents baldness.

And remember that baldness is caused by dandruff germs, those little hard working, persistent devils that day and night do nothing but dig into the roots of the hair and destroy its vitality.

Parisian Sage is a daintily perfumed hair dressing; not sticky or greasy and any woman who desires luxuriant and bewitching hair can get it in two weeks by using it.

Beware of imitations, look for the girl with the Auburn hair on every package. Parisian Sage is now sold by leading druggists all over America and is quarantined by C. E. Anderson to cure dandruff, stop falling hair and itching scalp in two weeks or money back. Fifty cents a large bottle. Made in America by Giroux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y., who fill mail orders, all charges prepaid.
